Connect

- Find volunteer work
- Join non-profit organizations
- Get any friend or colleague into the system with ease

TRS was originally an event planning company. TRS is now a software company with many diverse clients all over. Virginie got inspired to do this project from her multiple personal interactions with nonprofit volunteer work.

Impact

- Recognize others for their hard work towards an initiative
- Review initiatives and organizations based on your interactions
- Reward others with in-site badges

Our Purpose

To create an online service that encourages positive community-engagement while gamifying it to be more appealing to the general public. We want users of the website to clearly see what they are getting out of using the various features provided, while also contributing to the growth of various communities within volunteer-work culture.

Volunteer

- Have more diverse options when considering volunteer work
- Use detailed reports to see how, when and where volunteer hours are spent
- Engage yourself to become more involved in the community

Lessons Learned

Putting a value or "score" to volunteer work is extremely hard without figuring out the user's goals. Without taking into account their personal living and financial situation, we could unintentionally add a bias into the scoring system.
